Wetaskiwin athletes made a highly favorable showing at the Provincial Track and Field sports held here yesterday. The weather was perfect and there was a large crowd in attendance. Topping the list of local winners was Miss Norma Chiddy, who, though forced to accept second place honors in the sprints, for the second year in succession won the allround championship of the province, her record for the day being four firsts and three seconds, for a total of 29 points. Mary Humphries of Edmonton, was second with 11 points, and Pudge Sewell, also of Edmonton, third with 10 points.

Mrs. G. H. Barnes and daughter of Calgary, and Miss E. Meyer of Bellingham, Wash., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Sheeler last week.

R. J. Grant returned on Saturday from a holiday spent in the mountains with Calgary friends. If you want a good fish story, ask Bob.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Prest and family motored to Edmonton and other points east of the capital city a few days ago, where they will spend a few days' holiday.

The many friends of Mrs. Thos. Torsen will be glad to hear that she is "slightly" better than she has been for some time. She has been confined to bed for a couple of months.

Mrs. MacArthur left a few days ago for Seattle, where she is attending one of the world's largest fashion displays. She will also visit friends and relatives for a few days before returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cameron and family of Edmonton, visited at the home of Mr. C. A. Morris during the past week. They were on their way home from a motor trip to Waterton Lakes and other points in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Abousaff and daughter, Emmeline, George Abousaff and Earl Lindskog, left Sunday morning by motor to visit relatives and friends at Seattle and other points along the coast.

Rev. Appell has received newspapers from New Zealand with illustrations of the havoc wrought by the recent severe earthquake. These have been the severest for over twenty-five years. Mr. Appell will be glad to show these pictures to anyone interested.

Miss Ethel Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parker, has word from the Toronto Conservatory of Music this week, that she passed with honors the Elementary Examination in Piano. The examiner was Mr. Norman Wilks, the well-known pianist, now a member of the staff of the Toronto Conservatory.

I. M. C. Jackson, who resides south of the city, had the misfortune to have his garage, automobile, cutter and some implements destroyed by fire at about 4 o'clock Monday morning. The cause of the fire is a complete mystery. The loss will be quite heavy as Mr. Jackson did not carry any insurance.

Olga and August Anderson, niece and nephew of E. Lundell, and Hilda Backman of Lake Park, Minn., who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lundell for the past month, returned to their home Wednesday morning. Oscar Ostrum and Elmer and Marion Lundell accompanied them as far as Salvador, Sask.

A fire of unknown origin destroyed two granaries and an implement shed on the property west of the city, purchased a few months ago by Chas. Cummings. A threshing machine owned by Fred Biefus was stored in the shed at the time, and was also consumed. Mr. Cummings did not have any insurance on the buildings, but we understand $250 was carried on the threshing machine. Nothing was known of the loss until Mr. Cummings' sons awoke in the morning. Undoubtedly the moisture caused by the rain prevented the residence, a short distance away, from igniting.

"IF YOU CANNOT BOOST, DON'T KNOCK"

The above was the slogan selected by the committee in charge of the Missing Letter Contest, announced in The Times a couple of weeks ago. In selecting this slogan, the committee anticipated that a large number of correct answers would be received, and that the contest would be readily solved, but such was not the case. None of the answers received complied with the requirements and were correct, and of course no award can be given.

McLennan-Wins District Exhibit Competition

In spite of the drought, two districts made entry in the District Exhibit competition, Duhamel and Willowdale, the former winning the first prize of $55.00. Great credit is due Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fowler for the excellent exhibit gathered and arranged by them for Duhamel. Included in the display were threshed and sheaf grains and grasses of all kinds, fresh berries, currants, canned berries, jellies and tams and wild fruit, vegetables, eggs and bacon. The Willowdale exhibit, though not as complete as that of Duhamel, was well worthy of a visit—Canadian.

Successful Fishing Trip

A party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Woods and family of California, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Beller and daughter, Grandma Meyer of New Norway, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kolb of Wetaskiwin, have just returned from a week's outing. The party spent two days at Pigeon Lake, and the remainder of the week at Buck Lake, where they were camped near the Minnehaha Store on the beach of the lake.

The sport enjoyed the most was rowing and fishing, as 138 fish were caught by trolling. The trip was a complete success, enjoyed by everyone, and completed without any difficulties.

Boy Kicked by Horse

Jimmie, seven year old son of Norman Butler, a farmer living two and a half miles west of New Norway, is a patient at St. Mary's hospital, Camrose, suffering from a fractured skull, the result of a kick from a horse. Jimmie was apparently playing in the yard with some other children and was chasing the horses, when he received a kick which fractured his skull—Canadian.

Mortons Ltd., ladies' wear, with western stores at Regina, Saskatoon, Wetaskiwin and Red Deer, have acquired the balance of Mrs. A. H. Hingley's stock of ladies' wear and millinery at Camrose, and opened up business last Friday.

For the first time in a number of years "Pete" Ryan, of Wetaskiwin, well-known to Camrose fans, did not appear on the line-up of any of the teams taking part in the tournament.

Weddings

KJORLIEN-HUMBKE

Zion Lutheran Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday afternoon. The contracting parties were Miss Martha Emma Humbke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Humbke of Duhamel, and Arnt Selmer Kjolrien, son of Mrs. Ole Kjolrien of Wetaskiwin. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elsie Humbke, and Mr. Lawrence Humbke acted as best man. The parents of the bride, and the mother of the bridegroom, as well as a number of friends and relatives, witnessed the ceremony.

The bride wore a lovely pale pink georgette dress and white veil.

The happy couple will go to Edmonton for a short honeymoon and then will reside at Greenacres, Alberta. We extend our best wishes to them.

GRAHAM-STEELE

At Immanuel Church, Wetaskiwin, on August 1st, the marriage of Ivy May, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Steele of Ponoka, to Dr. Melvin Graham, also of Ponoka, was solemnized. Rev. P. C. Wade performed the ceremony.

After a short honeymoon through the southern part of the Province, Dr. and Mrs. Graham will reside in Ponoka.

NYSTEDT-EDIN

A very quiet and pretty wedding took place on Thursday evening, July 25th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Edin of Falun, when their second daughter, Annie Pauline, was united in marriage to Victor Immanuel Nystedt, of Metaskow, Alta.

Rev. Lindquist of Waterlawn, was the officiating minister, and the ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The bride looked very charming in a gown of white georgette and a veil of silk net. She carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations. She was attended by her sister Helga, while the groom was supported by John Lindquist.

The room was tastefully decorated for the occasion with green bouquets and white and pink streamers. After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served.

The happy couple left for a short honeymoon trip and later will return to the groom's farm at Metaskow.

McLennan-Flint

In a setting of palms, ferns and flowers at the residence of the bride's mother in Garneau, a wedding of wide interest in musical circles was solemnized on Wednesday evening at nine o'clock when Gladys Everett, daughter of the late George H. Flint, and Mrs. Flint, was united in marriage to Mr. J. Alexander McLennan, M.A., principal of Wetaskiwin schools last year. The Rev. W. Hollingsworth read the marriage service and Miss Kathleen Power played the wedding music. Miss Lottie Jessup sang during the signing of the register. "All Joy be Thine," Madame J. J. Duggan accompanying.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. G. Flint, the bride was lovely in a period frock of orchid over pink tulle with pearls and rhinestones, and real lace, with a band of rhinestone and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was Opheles roses. Mrs. A. J. Watson, the bride's sister was matron of honor, and Mr. Watson attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, the bride's mother in law, a chaperon over pink tulle with pearls and rhinestones, and real lace, with a band of rhinestone and orange blossoms. Her bouquet was Opheles roses. Mrs. A. J. Watson, the bride's sister was matron of honor, and Mr. Watson attended the bridegroom.

Mrs. J. Johnson of Camrose was in charge of the dining room which was artistically done in satin streamers, quantities of gypsophila and sweet peas with candles in matching shades. Mrs. A. J. Watson and Madame Duggan shared the honors at the table, and assisting were, Mrs. M. Case, Miss Rosa Hodgson, Miss Helen Porter, Miss Kathleen Power and Miss Lottie Jessup.

Later Mr. and Mrs. McLennan left on a honeymoon trip to Calgary, Lethbridge and the Pacific Coast, the latter traveling in an ensemble of French imported reversible satin in periwinkle blue with silver fox fur, the gift of the bridegroom, who also gave attractive mementoes of the occasion to the matron of honor and the musicians.

The bride, who for several seasons has played the violin in the Edmonton Symphony orchestra, and has been a favoured soloist at many functions, and will be greatly missed from the city. Mr. and Mrs. McLennan will make their home in Calgary.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. James Johnson, Regina; Mrs. Johnson, Camrose, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Watson, Lethbridge—Edmonton Journal.

Alderman French gave notice that at the next meeting of the City Council he would introduce a By-law respecting the sale of Wetaskiwin's Public Utilities to the Calgary Power Company.

KIWANIS KIDDIES' PICNIC WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14

The annual Kiwanis Kiddies' picnic will be held at Pigeon Lake on Wednesday afternoon, August 14th. Children in school grades 2 to 5 inclusive, are cordially invited to attend. All children wishing to go are asked to be at the Alexandra School grounds not later than 1 p.m. on the 14th, when cars will be read to take them to the lake. The children will be brought back in the evening. They should bring along their bathing suits, if they wish to go swimming.

Those who intend going will please hand in their names either to W. Barry, at the Bank of Commerce, or W. H. Odell, Star Store Block, not later than Monday the 12th. This is important, as the committee in charge is not making a house-to-house canvass this year, as in previous years, and it is necessary to know in advance how many cars to provide.

PROSPECTORS STARTING RUSH IN NORTHERN SASKATCHEWAN

Prince Albert, Sask., Aug. 2—Never before has a mineral rush into northern Saskatchewan assumed such proportions as Thursday when individual prospectors and great companies are pouring their resources into the new Mammoth field, 190 miles northeast of here by aeroplane, where the Davidson-Montgomery discovery claims reported to have been optioned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company are located.

Travelers returning from there on Thursday declare that the barren wilderness of a few months ago is now dotted with lots. An aeroplane of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting company is making two trips daily from Rottenstone lake transporting jammed diamond drilling machinery, while gangs of men are building bunkhouses and other camp buildings for the diamond drilling program laid out by that company.

STANDING WHEAT TROPHY OFFERED

A challenge cup is being offered by the Edmonton chamber of commerce for the best field of standing wheat in the northern part of the province, and a similar trophy will be given in the south by the Calgary Kiwanis club.

Then will come a grand challenge trophy, which the department of agriculture will again give this year to the farmer having the best field of wheat in any of the field crop and good farm competitions in the province.

There will be about 20 of these competitions at central points between Athabasca and Raymond, and as in previous years they will be sponsored by local boards of trade, agricultural societies, seed clubs, service clubs, etc.

Judging in the various competitions is now commencing and is being done by officials of the field crops branch. The grand challenge trophy was won last year by P. J. Rock, Morrin.

Henry Ford, in the July issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, says he would prefer, if he could make the choice, to have all his employees between 35 and 60 years of age. "For then," he adds, "we should have a stable and experienced force. We would not care how much over 60 the men were so long as they could do their work."

Advertisements in the paper that circulates all over the district thoroughly.

How to Play BRIDGE

ARTICLE No. 25

In a previous article attention was called to the fact that very often a player should bid his own suit after a double by his partner, even if he is sure that his partner intends such double as a business double. The type of hand held and the bidding are the deciding factors—not the fact that partner has doubled for business. Some players say: "I never take my partner out of a business double"; but there should be no such word as "never" in Auction. The player who "never" does this or that is more apt to be wrong than right. Keep an open mind at all times and learn to use your own judgment. You know your own hand much better than your partner and are, therefore, in a much better position to decide what you should do with it. Here are two fine examples:

Hand No. 1

Hearts—5
Clubs—J, 10, 9, 7, 5, 3
Diamonds—J, 4, 2
Spades—J, 9, 4, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A bid one trump, Y and B passed and Z bid two hearts. A doubled two hearts and every one at the table knew that after he bid a trump double he intended to defend. Y passed and B was up against the problem just referred to. Should he allow his partner's business double to stay in or should he take his partner out of a club bid? The answer to that question seems easy, for B hasn't a possible trick to help his partner defeat the two heart bid. On the other hand, if played at clubs, his hand should fit in very well with his partner's no trump. The success of the double looks doubtful, while the three club bid seems a certainty. For that reason, B certainly

Spades—A, 4, 2

Hearts—8, 2
Clubs—5, 3, 2
Diamonds—Q, 10, 9, 5
Spades—Q, 10, 9, 5

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one diamond. A passed, Y bid two clubs, B passed and Z bid two no trumps. All passed and A opened the six of hearts. How should Z now play the hand so that he can score a little slam against any defense?

Z should win the trick in his hand with the ten of hearts and then should lead two rounds of clubs and force A in the lead on the third round. Z should discard the trey of hearts and the trey of diamonds. A's best lead is the eight of diamonds which is won with Y's king.

Y should now lead three rounds of clubs. Z should discard the five of hearts, the seven of diamonds and the seven of spades. A and B also must make three discards. B should discard the deuce of hearts, the nine of diamonds and the five of spades. A should discard the seven of hearts and the deuce and four of diamonds.

Y should now lead the jack of hearts, which Z wins with the ace. A following suit. B must discard. He cannot discard the ten of diamonds or Z's ace jack are good; therefore he is forced to discard the nine of spades. Z should now lead the ace of diamonds and A is forced to discard. He cannot discard the king of hearts or Y's queen of hearts would be good; therefore he is forced to discard the trey of spades. Y should now discard the queen of hearts and B follows suit.

Z should now lead the king of spades and follow with the eight of spades, winning the trick in Y's hand with the ace. Y's four of spades is now good, giving Z a little slam. Play the hand on your practice.

If at trick five, A leads a spade, instead of a diamond, Z should win the trick with five king and lead a diamond, winning the trick in Y's hand with the king. From then on, the play is the same. A cannot lead a heart at trick four or Y will win the trick with the jack and so score an easy little slam. This problem has a lot to teach in the way of the double spades. A and B are both forced to discard spades in order to protect their hearts and force which they are forced or squeezed into losing a trick.

No score, first game at Contract. Z dealt, bid one spade and A passed. Y bid two diamonds, B bid two hearts and Z passed. A bid three hearts, Y bid three spades and B bid four hearts. B bid four spades, A and Y passed and B doubled. All passed and A opened the king of hearts which he won with the ace. He then led the seven of diamonds. Y played the queen and B won the trick with the king. B then led the seven of clubs. How should Z plan the play from this point on?

Z should win the trick in Y's hand with the ace of clubs and lead the eight of spades. If B covers with the jack, Z should cover with the queen. If B plays the seven of spades, Z should play the trey of spades. The result is the same, so suppose the latter case, which is really B's best play. Y should now lead the five of spades. B plays the jack and Z the queen. Z should now lead the five of hearts and trump in Y's hand with the ten of spades. Y should now lead the five of clubs and win the trick with the king in Z's hand. Z should now lead three rounds of spades. A should discard two clubs and a heart. Y should discard one club and two diamonds.

B is forced to make two discards. He makes a mistake and discards the jack of hearts. Z can score game by leading the low heart and forcing B in the lead, as B must then lead up to Y's ace ten of diamonds. B's proper discard is the ten of hearts, the ten and ace of hearts so that if Z next leads a heart, A will win the trick with the queen and lead the trey of hearts and force B to make a diamond trick and so saves game.

Note this hand carefully, for it is a fine illustration of forcing an opponent in the lead on the eleventh trick and then forcing him to lead up to a tenace which he cannot avoid.

Also how B can block this plan. In the actual play, B failed to discard his ace of hearts and Y Z scored a game and rubber by reason of Z's fine play.

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one diamond. A passed and Y bid one trump. B passed and Z bid two hearts. A and Y passed and B bid two no trump. Z now bid three diamonds, A and Y passed and B doubled. If Z passed, what should A now bid? Should he pass and try to defeat the three diamond bid or should he bid three spades?

A should certainly bid three spades—a bid he should have made over the three diamond bid. If, however, he was justified in passing at that stage, he certainly should bid three spades when he knew that after he bid a trump double he intended to defend. Y passed and B was up against the problem just referred to. Should he allow his partner's business double to stay in or should he take his partner out of a club bid? The answer to that question seems easy, for B hasn't a possible trick to help his partner defeat the two heart bid. that this gleam across the wastes was the breaking of the light of truth in the darkness.

I heard a step behind me. It was Inspector Freeman.

I see he's coming just at the time he promised, he said with a note of wonder.

The boat drew up to the shore, and the colored men got out to make it fast. The lantern light was dim, and I could not see plainly. It seemed to me that something was huddled in the bottom of the boat—something rather large—but I couldn't see what it was because a rubber tarpaulin had been thrown over it. But I did see Alexander's face. He held the lantern to look at us, and it showed his features plainly. He seemed curiously intent.

We walked up the path, and three shadows made black streaks across the light that the lantern threw.

They were of the three Southleys who had come out of the house to meet us. They also seemed determined. Something gleamed in the old man's hand. As Alexander held the lantern high, I saw what it was. It was a pistol.

"What's this?" Alexander asked.

"What's this?" Southley replied. "You told me to get it."

"How did you do it without arousing suspicion?"

"Took it from the drawer in the library table. He keeps it there in the daytime. Usually carries it at night. Ernest and I left him with the excuse that we had to talk to some of the colored laborers at their cottages. Josephine just slipped away."

Alexander turned to Ernest. "How about the candles?"

"Two burning in the library. All the others have been misplaced, as you directed."

"And the servants?"

"No one in the house but Ahmad."

The inspector suddenly gasped. "But I tell you that isn't safe," he cried. "He'll get away. Alexander, you promised to keep a watch out for him. He'll be gone when we get to the house."

"I promised I'd see that he didn't run away," Alexander answered fearfully. "He'll be there when we come. Don't fret, inspector." He turned to the others. "Then everything is ready. Miss Southley—if you will go with Inspector Freeman. His arm is strong and his aim sure. Southley, you and Ernest can take the south windows. You, Long, will be an unprejudiced witness. But you've got to know how to walk alertly."

"Good. Then you'll come with me. And now—out goes the light."

He lifted the lantern and turned down the wick. Then he blew out the flame. Of course I understood. In our present position at the base of the hill, it would not be visible from the windows of the house. It would be visible as we approached the house.

And just as the shadows fell, a hand touched mine. It was a warm hand, and soft, and the fingers rested in a single fluttering instant in my palm. It was a little hand, too, and I had in a single instant of never-to-be-forgotten knowledge of its power to soothe and hold, and a tenderness beyond all reckoning. And I knew whose hand it was.

"Maybe you can understand after

Mrs. R. O. Anderson, Dunnville, Ont., writes:—"I am, naturally, a strong, healthy person, but after my fifth child was born, and the time had arrived for me to take up the reins of household management, I found my strength very unequal to the duties which devolved upon me as my heart would palpitate, and I would have such strange sensations this," she whispered. "Perhaps you won't condemn me so."

"Then like a squad deploying in battle, we started climbing up the slope of the hill."

We soon left the others in the darkness. Alexander and I crept to the postern door.

"One sound will spoil the play," he whispered to me in the instant that we waited at its threshold. "Keep your ears and eyes open."

Then we crept through into the little hall. The door into the library was open, but scarcely any light came through. So deep was the shadow that Alexander was at once invisible.

We lay down on the opposite sides of the hall, so that we could look through into the library. But we left the passage open, as Alexander had intended. The reason was simply that he thought the man we had come to watch might want to make an escape through the doorway, and it would have spoiled the plan for him to see us on the way out. Lying close to the walls, it was likely he would pass us by. But after one glance through the doorway I felt, sure that no attention would be made. The darkness of the hallway where Hayward had died, in this man's mind, seemed more terrible than the room itself.

The library at Southley Downs was tremendously long. It had rows of windows at one end, and the other opened into the hall. The tapestries and furnishings were rather dark, after the manner of Victorian libraries. At one side was built the great fireplace, now cheerless and cold. There were rather many curtains that wavered when the wind blew. The wind was blowing now. We could feel it, damp and strange from the marsh, against our faces.

When I say that Vilas Hayward sat alone I do not mean that there were no other occupants in the room. There was one other, and it is true that at first I didn't see him at all. He kept at the very edge of the candlelight, and he moved so softly, so unobtrusively that I was very easy to ignore his presence. It was Ahmad Das.

A white face it was, comparatively visible in dim light. That is why soldiers going on to No Man's Land at night darkened their faces with lamp-black. But Ahmad's face was naturally dark, and it blurred in our sight. Sometimes I saw the whites of his eyes when the candlelight shone on them. Vilas Hayward was not trying to read and the fact that the light was too dim for easy reading had nothing really to do with it. He was watching Ahmad Das out of the corner of his eyes.

The lighting effect was one in which a great artist would have rejoiced. It was yellow and dim, of an eeriness, and perhaps it had a quality of unreality. The atmosphere of candles at any time is distinctly medieval. Then there was the gradation of shadows—dusky close to the fireplace, but shading off to a deep, intense black. The light from the two candles met at the very extremities, leaving a dusky path between them. Vilas and shoulders cast a distinct shadow on the wall, blurred, however, by the effect of a candle across the room. The shadow thrown by Ahmad was something gliding and dusky and dim against the curtains of the windows.

DRIVING TOO FAST ON CALGARY-EDMONTON HIGHWAY

Before Mr. H. G. Scott, police magistrate, at Red Deer on Friday afternoon and evening, F. Peterson, of Wetaskiwin, was charged with driving his car at an unreasonable rate of speed north through Blackfalds on Sunday evening, July 21, the result of which was that he ran into H. Gallipeau's (Burbank) car going west at an intersection, and swung it round into the ditch, reversing its direction.

Mr. W. E. Payne, K.C., appeared for the Crown, and Mr. Alex. Knox, Wetaskiwin, for the defendant. After considerable conflict of evidence, the magistrate found the accused guilty and fined him $40 and costs. He did not order a suspension of his driver's license, as Mr. Knox put up a strong plea that he used the car in his business.

The evidence for the Crown was given by H. Gallipeau, the owner of the car hit; Sergt. Holmes, A.P.P.; James Plumb and F. R. Hamilton, while the only evidence for the defense was that of F. Peterson himself. Mr. Gallipeau's evidence was rather contradictory, as he became so excited under cross-examination as he was on the night of the accident. After the collision both the drivers went back to the garage, and the aim of the defense was to substantiate their claim that Gallipeau had admitted that he was responsible for the accident, and would pay Peterson's damages of $12; and later, that each pay their own damages. Gallipeau would not admit that he had said anything of the kind, but his story of the details was rather conflicting. Gallipeau's friends had told him he was in the right. Mr. Knox claimed, and it was after this that he disclaimed responsibility. Peterson said they would put the matter up to the police. Sergt. Holmes came up from Red Deer in response to the telephone call. Accused's car was in the garage, and Gallipeau's in the ditch, both had been damaged. The Gallipeau car had been hit on the front left hand side, while Peterson's was damaged on the right front side, mostly in front. The marks at the intersection showed that the collision had taken place on the gravel two feet north of the centre line of the intersection on the east side: the Peterson car had skidded 15 or 20 feet, after he had put on his brakes. There were no marks of accused's car at point of collision in any direction before he hit Gallipeau's car except the skid marks. Witness had met Peterson before when he was arrested on a similar charge. Peterson tried to convince the Sergeant that Gallipeau had run into him, but, after visiting the scene of the collision, he asked Peterson how the other car happened to get knocked over where it was. Peterson told him Gallipeau had pushed it there. He declared he was not going more than 20 miles an hour, and that he was looking at his speedometer just before the accident. Peterson told the Sergeant he thought he had the right of way, as he was on the main highway, and he expected the other man to stop as he was coming out of a lane. The witness pointed out that Peterson had not the right of way, and that Gallipeau was using a regular village cross street, but Peterson refused to be convinced of this, even though Gallipeau was willing to pay damages if he was in the wrong, but not otherwise. Peterson was hard to deal with, and would make no approach for a peaceful settlement. The Chrysler car Peterson was driving was capable of great speed. If he was only going 20 miles an hour, he could stop in 20 feet, whereas he could see a person coming from the right if he was 125 or 150 feet away. In cross-examination, Mr. Knox and the Sergeant had a hard battle. After Peterson had said he had the right of way, witness may have made up his mind that Peterson was in wrong. Five or six folks round of whom he enquired said Peterson was going 25 to 40 miles an hour. Mr. Knox wanted to know why these people were not there to be examined as to their credibility. The Sergeant replied that he had two there, which he considered enough. Peterson claimed the collision was the fault of the complainant; that Gallipeau was driving 20 to 25 miles an hour; when accused saw, he said, that a collision was inevitable, he at once put on his brakes; Peterson did not say his car was standing still.

James Plumb and F. R. Hamilton swore that Gallipeau was driving slowly as he crossed the intersection. Plumb's estimate was 3 to 5 miles. Hamilton's 10 to 15 miles an hour. Peterson was going 25 miles an hour at least when the crash came; they saw Peterson 15 or 20 yards away from Gallipeau. The latter's car was knocked round end for end into the ditch. They had not said that Gallipeau was in wrong and that he should act, or that Peterson had the right of way.

The accused in the evening swore as to Gallipeau admitting his responsibility for the collision, and his willingness to settle. Accused had telephoned to Red Deer for the police.

in which Peterson had conducted himself in the witness box. He would fine him $40 and costs, and if he appeared again and was convicted, he would send him to jail. This was his second conviction for reckless driving in this district within a year—Red Deer Advocate.

He was driving only at a reasonable speed, and had his car stopped when Gallipeau ran into him.

The magistrate was inclined to the belief that accused's story was not reliable, and that the evidence of the other witnesses was to be taken. He spoke severely as to the manner in which Peterson had conducted himself in the witness box. He would fine him $40 and costs, and if he appeared again and was convicted, he would send him to jail. This was his second conviction for reckless driving in this district within a year—Red Deer Advocate.

PEACE TO PALMS HIGHWAY AIM OF MOTOR LEAGUES

Lethbridge, August 6.—Extension of a new international highway from Peace River to Los Angeles was envisioned by delegates of the Alberta-Montana Highway Association, sponsors of the Sunshine trail, meeting here today in the eighth annual convention.

It was estimated that such a highway would carry a 25 per cent annual increase in tourist traffic for many years to come, and through social and business intercourse would cement the friendly relations existing between the United States and Canada.

Speakers from Edmonton on the north to Butte on the south, who participated in the discussion at Monday morning's session, vigorously tackled international road building problems and at the closing session this afternoon important resolutions bearing on good roads problems were introduced, on being a resolution to the Alberta government asking for systematic marking by the government of main roads, a service described by M. J. Connor, farmer member of the legislature for Varner riding, as one which the province should give and give immediately.

A spirited debate arose over the demand for the diversion of all revenues arising from the gasoline tax and motor licenses in Alberta to road building. In Montana, Mr. Warden pointed out, this was done, the policy being decided upon after an agitation covering a number of years, and the placing of these moneys in a separate fund rather than in the general revenue of the state, had proved beneficial and equitable to all concerned. Mr. Warden merely interjected this observation during a sharp passage of words between C. H. Grant, of Edmonton, who attacked the Alberta government policy, and M. J. Connor, M.L.A., and Lawrence Peterson, M.L.A., who spoke in defence of the minister of public works, maintaining that a sum practically equal to the revenue arising from automobile taxation was now being spent on roads, although it was not being specifically set aside for that purpose.

A. B. Mackay, president of the Alberta Motor Association, also took a hand in the discussion, declaring that the motorists were asking that all gas and license revenue go to a special road fund, and that it was unfair to divert this money to the general funds of the province. The speaker, he said, but what becomes of it? Probably half of it is spent on roads, and the province borrows an amount to match it for road work on capital account, adding an added burden upon the province. The other half of the revenue produced by the tax goes to general purposes.

This, it was contended, was unfair, and the position of the government unsound, when it was held that all the gasoline revenue actually goes to roads, although not so earmarked. The members of the legislature present made no reply to this contention, although Mr. Peterson explained during his remarks that he understood it was the intention of the government to use the revenue raised this year by the five-cent gas tax, plus the revenue from licenses, as a basis for road appropriations next year.

THE FRIEND OF LOVERS

Few people have heard of Mrs. E. M. Glimmer, but 33 millions daily read the advice of Dorothy Dix, Mrs. Glimmer's pen name, whose photograph, shown above, was taken recently during her stay at the Banff Springs Hotel. She was on her way from New Orleans, home, to Vancouver whence she sailed for a trip to Alaska aboard the Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Charlotte.

NORTHWARD MIGRATION

Evidence of the northward trend of migration says an exchange is given by Hon. Chas. Stewart, minister of the interior, who points out that 80 per cent of the 2,750,000 acres taken up by settlers in Canada last year was in such northerly districts as Prince Albert, Sask., and in the Peace River and Grand Prairie areas. The migration was most pronounced in the Peace River country where 1,000 homesteads were taken up during 1928. Some 40,000,000 acres of fertile land are still available in this region, the development of which would add millions of dollars to the annual value of Canada's grain crop.

From the figures given by Mr. Stewart, it is evident that there is still plenty of room for agricultural development on the northern prairies and that men and women possessing the pioneer spirit are availing themselves of the opportunities for home-making on the fertile lands of the Canadian northwest. To native-born young Canadians and to immigrants seeking wider opportunities than those afforded in European countries the call of the North is a challenge awaiting acceptance.

VAN, ON MOVE,

RUINED BY FIRE

Airdrie, Aug. 2.—A "Big Four" moving van was completely destroyed by fire on the Edmonton trail eight miles south of Airdrie on Monday evening. The driver of the van did not know it was on fire until told by a passing motorist. The van was loaded with furniture and was en route to Edmonton from Calgary. The loss is estimated at about $4,000.

GREAT WEALTH IN FUR COMES OUT OF NORTH

Over $1,000,000 worth of fur will be brought out on the Northern Alberta Railway train arriving in Edmonton on Friday afternoon. This is the first of the northern catch that has been taken out by the regular routes this year.

As well as the large consignment of fur six cars of fresh fish from Lake Winnipeg will be brought out, the cars being consigned to Chicago and Toronto, from which point they will be re-routed to New York and Buffalo.

THREE ACCIDENTS AT NEW NORWAY

New Norway, Alta, August 3.—Clayton Uphaw, small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Uphaw, was struck in the eye by a piece of glass when playing with a hammer and was taken to hospital in Edmonton this week.

The seven-year-old son of Norman Butler was kicked in the head by a horse and seriously injured. He was taken to the Camrose hospital.

Nathan Stromberg, a farmer living near here, was kicked in the face by one of his horses this week and badly injured. He is recovering from his injuries slowly.

Painless

Son: "I say, mother, you remember you said the dentist was painless."

Mother: "Well?"

Son: "He isn't. When I hit his finger he yelled like mad."

WORLD OPINION AND THE TARIFF

It would seem that what the writers of the Declaration of Independence call "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind" ought to find some place in the consciousness of the Senate Finance Committee, now engaged in consideration of the new tariff bill. Protests against the rates in this bill have now been filed with the State Department from thirty-eight nations, and they are still coming in. Many of these nations, it may be noted, are debtors to the United States for governmental loans, while in all of them are to be found heavy investments made by citizens of the United States.

No tariff law could be expected to be popular abroad. The purpose of the tariff is to shut off as far as possible imports from other countries in order that domestic manufacturers of the goods thus excluded may have a monopoly market, or, one approaching a monopoly for their product. That any nation has the complete legal right to adopt such a policy goes without saying. Indeed, a great many of the nations protesting against the proposed American tariff themselves maintain tariffs differing from it only in degree, and possibly in instances quite as high as any schedule now proposed at Washington.

But while the United States is entirely within its rights in erecting any sort of a tariff barrier it may see fit, there is grave reason to question whether the architects of this particular wall are not over-reaching themselves; whether indeed they are not building a wall which will keep in potential exports to quite as great an extent as it keeps out the proffered imports of which a certain type of economists seems to be so much afraid. For the support of this tariff policy the arguments in vogue sixty years ago are cited, practically without adaptation to present-day conditions. But the conditions at the time when the protection tariff policy was adopted by the United States differ quite as much from those existing at this time as do the cities of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago today from the same towns in 1860. Then, the United States was an agricultural nation, importing in the main needed manufactured goods.

The tariff served its purpose, and served it well, in building up a great home market which resulted in the establishment of the manufacturing industries of today. Then America had little to export except the products of the farms. Today its factories, and especially those in which the process of mass production has been most fully developed, have a surplus which must be exported, or their organizations will disintegrate. Moreover, then the country was a debtor nation, borrowing eagerly in all the bourses of Europe money wherewith to build canals, railroads and other public works, and paying the interest with the products of its farms. Today it is a creditor nation, with every country in the world needing to ship its goods into American markets if it is to pay the interest on its indebtedness and a reasonable amount on its principal. In proportion as this method of payment is impeded by the operations of the tariff the difficulties of balancing accounts will be increased, and in the same proportion, too, the exports of the Nation's factories will fall off for lack of customers in countries upon which it has imposed business stagnation by closing to them its own markets.

There are economic facts which should be easy of recognition. There is an ethical consideration, too, implied in the question as to whether the United States has a moral right, after lending money, to make the conditions of repayment more burdensome than the debtor had reason to expect. And more than that, there seems to be a question of policy transcending at any rate the economic side in the danger to the peace of the world, that may result from the endeavor of these thirty-eight nations, or groups of them, to form in their turn combinations which will meet the United States tariff by tariff leagues of their own. Let it not be forgotten that wars commonly spring from economic causes. Is it the part either of business sense of national honor, or of ordinary prudence for the United States to enact a law which instantly arrays against it the united hostility of practically all civilized nations?—The Christian Science Monitor, Boston.

DON'T FOR CANNING

Don't fail to test jars with new rubbers before sterilizing.

Don't try, at first, to can vegetables in any jars larger than a quart. The smaller the jar the easier it is to sterilize.

Don't use old rubbers. It is cheaper to buy new rubbers than to lose your vegetables.

Don't try to use a wide rubber on a screw-top jar. The wide rubbers fit the spring-top jar and the narrow rubbers the screw-top.

Don't shorten the time of sterilization.

Don't fail to seal jars tightly. See that the spring is adjusted to give good pressure on spring-top jars and that the screw-top does not slip on glass jars.

Don't let the heat down so that the water fails to boil. Keep it jumping.

Don't use a doubtful sealing jar for vegetables. Put some easy keeping product such as pickles, jams or jellies in chipped or uneven jars.

Don't use a dirty dish cloth to wipe off the top of the jar. It may undo all your work.

WORTH CAUSES RUSH OF CATTLE; MARKET GLUTTED

Winnipeg, July 31.—The market is being glutted with cattle in western Canada, so in spite of the increased duty four train loads of cattle left Winnipeg on Saturday for the Chicago market. In quality these offerings were very poor, sales being rushed as a result of distress.

Feed promises to be so scarce by fall as to make it expensive to carry over beef stock. It is the first time in history of the west when conditions were so bad in the range. Livestock associations are urging the holding of young stock at all hazards to prevent complete depletion of future supply.

SOME DIET FAULTS

Our diet is getting to be a lazy man's diet. We want our food soft. We are in a rush and do not want to be delayed by the necessity of chewing it. Consequently the consistency of our food has changed and it is frequently lacking in the roughage or indigestible fibre which is so essential to the stimulation of the lower intestinal tract. The fires of the furnace cannot burn brightly unless the ashes are raked out below—so health suffers if these waste products of food digestion are allowed to accumulate. Bowel action is greatly stimulated by certain mineral salts, and acids as found in fruits, and by the coarse fibres of green vegetables and whole grain cereals and breads. A certain amount of fat in the diet is also of assistance, and an important factor is a liberal use of water during the entire day, starting with one glass the first thing in the morning.

COULD QUALIFY

I won't disguise the fact that this is a tough proposition. The man who gets it will have some ugly customers to deal with.

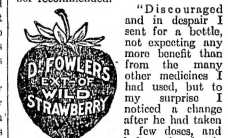

"Then it will suit me down to the ground. I've had lots of experience with ugly customers."

"Where?"

"In a beauty shop."

Her Little Boy Was Very Ill With Summer Complaint

Mrs. Ray Fisher, Lebrat, Sask., writes:—"For over a month, last summer, my little boy was suffering from summer complaint. He got so bad there began to be traces of blood in his stool, and anything he ate would not stay on his stomach very long. He became so weak he could not stand up. A neighbor recommended."

"Discouraged and in despair I sent for a bottle, not expecting any more benefit than from the many other medicines I had used, but to my surprise I noticed a change after he had taken a few doses, and before the bottle was half used he was the same happy healthy boy he was before he took sick."

WILD HORSES SHIPPED EAST TO BECOME FOOD FOR FOXES

Winnipeg, Aug. 3.—Four thousand wild horses from the foothills of Alberta are being brought to Winnipeg to be slaughtered and sold as meat to Eastern fox farm proprietors. The first consignment of 400 arrived this week and another lot of 400 is expected Monday.

Fox farms have hitherto been supplied with offal and other waste from the abattoirs but there is a shortage this year and a great demand for the horse flesh is anticipated. It sells for about 1 cent a pound.

This new undertaking is partly due to drought conditions in the West. In Alberta and Montana thousands of horses are running wild on the prairies, eating the grass needed for cattle. Owing to a great deal of in-breeding they are degenerating into a weedy type, little suited for use and it is considered they are not worth the feed which is decidedly scarce this summer.

SIXTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

(Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, August 3, 1929).

Cutting of wheat will start early next week and will be fairly general a week later in a number of districts in the province, according to telegraphic reports received on Friday by the Department of Agriculture for the sixth crop report of the season. Winter wheat cutting is well under way in the south of the province and a very satisfactory yield is reported. A good crop of spring wheat is also ripening and will yield as high as 30 bushels per acre in some southern districts.

As the result of continued dry weather and hot winds during the past two weeks the prospective yield, particularly throughout the central part of the province, has suffered a further reduction. The wheat crop especially has been affected and much of the grain is so short in the straw that it cannot be harvested satisfactorily by the ordinary methods. The Department of Agriculture, however, is demonstrating at a number of points in this area a binder attachment which will make it possible to save practically all of this short grain, and many farmers are adopting this system with very satisfactory results.

Encouraging reports are received from the Peace River where the crops have been improved by additional rainfall. The oat crop in the north gives promise of a good yield of a quality suitable for feed.

The live stock situation has been affected in some sections of the province and cattle are being disposed of in view of the limited prospect of winter feed. In a few districts it will be necessary to make provision for additional feed to carry breeding stock and work horses over winter but arrangements can be made to ship this from other localities where hay and feed have been less seriously reduced.

Cutting of the second crop of alfalfa has started in the south, and a somewhat lighter yield than usual is being put up. Sugar beets are being irrigated regularly and a good crop is promised.

LEVEL CROSSING CRASH TAKES TOLL OF LIFE

Struck by a passenger train proceeding South on the Edmonton-Calgary line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on a level crossing a few miles north of Red Deer, an automobile was totally demolished and three people were killed and two were injured, at 3:37 o'clock Sunday morning.

The dead are John Ference, aged 59 years; Pauline Ference, his wife, aged 59 years; Mary Ference, daughter-in-law, aged 19 years. The injured are: Jack Ference, aged 29 years; Sam Ference, aged 21 years.

The party was proceeding from their homes near Northbank, Alta., to Calgary, where they intended visiting friends.

Downing the engineer, told the police he thought the car had a chance of getting across the tracks safely, but suddenly, when it had reached a point halfway across the tracks, it stopped dead. It is believed that the driver became excited and stepped on the brake, instead of the accelerator, and stalled the car.

MILLIONS OF FEET OF TIMBER DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 2.—Despite all 200 men with adequate equipment can do, the most disastrous conflagration in years continues to wipe out stands of valuable timber throughout this district and is rapidly reducing one of the most beautiful sections of the Brazeau forest to a blackened waste. Millions of feet of potential timber is going up in smoke, and the manpower of the whole neighborhood has been requisitioned in an attempt to curb the fire demand. But the need for more men is urgent, and unless heavy rain comes soon the seriousness of the situation must continue to increase.

Flames along the cut branch are being dealt with by workers, and all surplus labor is being utilized in an effort to combat more effectively the onslaughts of the fire. Their manpower withdrawn, it is expected the Poothills and Stereo mines will be compelled temporarily to suspend operations.

The two hundred fire fighters rounded up in the district are working under the supervision of forest rangers and competent foremen, and pack trains comprising more than seventy horses have also been pressed into service.

While reports from the west and north are encouraging on the eastern and southern sides of the forest the outlook is gloomy.

The fire has jumped the Cardinal river and is now in close proximity to the Grave Flats camp. Soon it may menace the graves of Indians who many years ago roamed the country and later gave this section of the forest its name.

ELEPHANTS DO NOT FORGET

St. Thomas, Ont., July 31.—Alice, 110-year-old elephant, who was with Jumbo, when he was killed at the local station in 1885, came back here yesterday. When she arrived at the spot where Jumbo was killed, Alice went to her knees, stamped and writhed and trumpeted shrilly, causing eight other elephants to go on a rampage. They were quieted and when Alice had to cross the same spot again she repeated her demonstrations of sorrow. A dog which is Alice's constant companion, was used to bring her away.

DEPARTMENT ASSISTING IN POULTRY RAISING

George M. Cormie who for the past several years has been in charge of poultry promotion work in this province for the Dominion Government has been appointed Poultry Commissioner for the Alberta Department of Agriculture and will assume his new duties about August 15. It is announced by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture.

Under a recent arrangement between Provincial and Dominion Governments, the Poultry Promotion Service of the latter is being withdrawn from the province and the policies of the two governments will be continued in the future under the supervision of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

An extensive program of research work along poultry lines will be undertaken by J. H. Hare who has been poultry commissioner and who under the new arrangement will also take over the work of directing the Provincial Poultry Plant at Oliver where this research work will be carried on. It is felt by Mr. Hoadley that there is a broad field for work along this line in the interests of the poultry industry which is steadily growing in importance and Mr. Hare who is particularly well qualified for this work will devote his entire time to a series of investigations dealing with poultry diseases and various problems involved in the breeding, feeding, rearing and housing of poultry under Alberta conditions. The Minister is confident that under the new arrangements announced above, valuable contributions will be made to the poultry industry of the province. The Department will work in close co-operation with the various poultry organizations including the Poultry Pool, the R.O.P. Association, the Turkey Breeders' Association, accredited and approved flock breeders and owners of farm flocks. It is recognized that poultry raising is rapidly becoming an important branch of the farming industry and it is the desire of the Department to give every possible assistance and encouragement to this important activity.

THOUSAND FIRES RAGE IN FORESTS
Victoria, B.C., Aug. 5.—With the number of forest fires in British Columbia up to the present time well over the 1,000 mark, surpassing all previous years, this province still faces an extremely serious situation in this respect, according to the weekly bulletin of the forest protection branch here.

Hot and dry and extremely hazardous conditions prevail practically throughout the province, having extended during last week. Unless a break in the weather occurs soon, extensive fires and heavy losses are expected.

FILINGS FOR HOME-STEADS SET RECORD
Homestead filings still continue to smash all existing records, according to a report of the Dominion Lands recorder, issued Thursday, showing that 482 homesteads were filed on in July, an increase of 211 over the total for the corresponding month last year. The filing is large enough to cover more than three townships.

Every district under the jurisdiction of the local office is having its share of the keen demand for homesteads, and no district in particular has been centred on. The new settlers have proved to be a fine type of citizen and have indicated that their friends and relatives are also interested in the future prosperity of Northern Alberta, so no falling off in the present keen demand is anticipated by officials.

"THE MODERN MAN"

Hurry the baby as fast as you can. Hurry him, worry him, make him a man. Off with his baby clothes, get him in pants. Feed him on brain food and make him advance. Hustle him, soon as he's able to walk into a grammar school; cram him with talk. Fill his poor head full of figures and facts. Keep on a-jamming them in till it cracks. Once boys grew up at a rational rate. Now we develop a man while you wait. Rush him through college, compel him to grab. Of every known subject, a dip and a dab. Get him in business and after the cash. All by the time he can grow a mouse-tache. Let him forget he was ever a boy. Make gold his god and its jingle his joy. Keep him a hustling and clear out of breath. Until he wins—nervous prostration and death.

PROBLEM OF HARVESTING SHORT GRAIN SOLVED

The short strawed grain found at many points in the province this year has brought many farmers face to face with the problem of how best to save the crop they have. They are anxious to save what they feel they can.

In use with the binder. Stacks of head grain are usually built rather narrow—10 or 12 feet—but may be as long and high as convenient. Spoilage in stacks is very infrequent unless a lot of green weeds are cut with the grain, provided of course that the grain is reasonably mature.

The other method of handling the cut grain calls for the use of what is known as a head-barge, which has been in successful use for several years in sections of the province. The barge is a specially constructed portable form about seven feet square which moulds the stack as the grain pours into it from the binder. A man in the barge spreads the grain and tramps it, and when it is full and topped off, making a stack about eight feet high, the barge is tilted back and the grain is slid out. The stacks are left with perpendicular sides and tops that shed the rain. The grain cures well in these small stacks and produces a good grade.

There are three ways of threshing these stacks—first they may be arranged in groups so that the separator may be set among them; second they may be placed in rows and a portable thresher or combine moved from stack to stack, or third they may be arranged in rows and moved by means of a pull rake or other contrivance to a separator.

Those interested in building a barge may secure blueprints and specifications by writing to the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Elevator extensions ready for attachment to the binder may be secured from a number of the farm machinery companies in the province, or the farmer may construct this equipment himself at a very reasonable cost, and the necessary expense will be repaid many times over in the additional amount of grain saved by harvesting in this way.

A number of machines are being equipped for demonstration purposes and these will be located at various points in the province. These may be seen during the coming week at Vegreville, Vermilion, Sedgewick, Coronation, Camrose, Swallow, Stettler and at the Provincial Government Farm at Oliver. Each of the machines will be in charge of a representative of the Department of Agriculture who will be glad to assist farmers in the district in similarly adapting their binders to harvest short grain.

PATSY ADJUSTS MATTERS

(By Parke Whitney)

"It is just as well that your firm has decided to pay its clerks by cheque hereafter, as I have never felt very safe in handing out a lot of money to the young women from your office when they called for the payroll—large payrolls are attracting thieves these days." The teller of the Merchants' National Bank smiled pleasantly at Margaret Belne as she cashed her first cheque under the new office rule.

Margaret blushed. It was many a day since anyone had called her "young!" Thirty-year-old! It was nice of that teller, though, to think of her risk in carrying the payroll. Not many these days gave much thought to anybody except themselves. As she walked slowly homeward she felt she must be getting "mushy" to let a few considerate words from a mere business acquaintance make such an impression on her.

Life was getting terribly monotonous, just the same. The same old routine, day in and day out! How did others stand it? Wasn't it reasonable to suppose that some time or other everybody else felt the same way about it? What did they do about it? Vary the monotony by interjecting a hobby to sidetrack a rat that seemed to be getting deeper as one went along? Hadn't she done that for ten years?

Hadn't she acted as mentor, chaperone and confidante to nearly a hundred girls who had passed in and out under her supervision over a large number of girls in a mercantile house? Hadn't she given encouragement and a helping hand wherever needed? She wasn't throwing any bouquets at herself, either, when she admitted that she had done all these things.

There were little pitfalls for young working girls that they didn't always sometimes see, and she had pointed them out and kept an eye on them. So many then she ought to have done, maybe, but she had done it, and had often been misunderstood.

Just now there was a new girl—Patricia Smith. The blondest girl she had ever seen—almost too attractive for a business office. She had been with them now for almost six months, and the readiness with which she took every suggestion and correction showed her eagerness to make good. She hadn't any mother, either, poor kid! Well, just another responsibility! Maybe she'd be thanked for it, maybe not.

With Patricia's advent the inevitable had happened. Nearly every single man in the outer office had found an excuse to visit the inner office, to consult Miss Belne on matters about which they couldn't be told a thing. Patricia Smith kept her eyes on her books at such times and raced through her letters.

"She's a level-headed little thing," thought Miss Belne approvingly. After dinner that night Miss Belne found herself wondering just what might be the hobby of the good-looking teller at the Merchants. He wasn't young, but he wasn't old. Maybe his hobby was gift. He looked like a man who loved the out-of-doors. She wondered.

It rained hard the following night and she was hurrying out just behind Patsy when she noticed a green roadster, which swept the curb just as Patsy reached it, and a man's voice called out:

"Come along, kid, don't you know it's raining?"

Patsy tossed her head and kept on her way, but Miss Belne walked up to the man. She pointed her finger at the traffic officer in the middle of the street.

"See that policeman?" she said sternly. "If ever I see you or your roadster around here again, I'll call him."

"So you're Miss Belne! I've heard a lot about you," the young man said with a laugh, as he darted into the traffic.

The day came when Miss Belne sadly felt it her duty to tell Patsy she had come as far as she could get in that particular office.

"Stay here as long as you like," she told her, "but my advice is to get into an accountant's position in the banks or bonding houses, where you'll have a better future."

"As long as I work, I'm going to stay right here," said Patsy, decidedly. "You'll be foolish if you do," remonstrated her friend, "although I'd miss you terribly if you left."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Patsy. "Why?" asked Miss Belne, curiously.

"Oh, just to know you like me," said Patsy, rattling along on her machine.

Returning home from the public library several nights later, Miss Belne got caught in a traffic jam just long enough to glimpse Patsy Smith in a luxurious limousine, resplendent in an evening gown of orchid velvet, with a glittering bandolier drawn low on her forehead. The attentive young man of the green roadster was with her.

It was such a shock that she lay awake half the night thinking up a way to diplomatically approach Patsy and show her the folly of being seen about with a man of so evidently not of her work-a-day world.

"Patsy," she began solemnly the next morning, "I'm going to speak to you just as your mother would."

"I'm glad of that and I hope you will be my mother some day," was the unexpected reply of Patsy. "You like my father, don't you?"

"Why, child, I don't even know your father," said the startled Miss Belne. "You've talked a terrible lot about him," murmured Patsy.

"I've talked to you about no man," protested Miss Belne, indignantly, "except, perhaps that teller at the Merchants."

Patsy nodded. "That's who I mean. He chose this office for me to demonstrate my ability to earn my own living should I ever have to. I'm to leave when my

"Why didn't you tell me?" asked Miss Belne, reproachfully, striving wildly to remember some of the things she had said to Patsy.

"Roger Smith, your father?"

THE Imperial Bank was founded during the period when farming constituted almost the whole industrial life of Canada. City streets were once thronged on Market Day and the teams waited at every post.

Times change—the hitching post has gone—but the farming industry can never be superseded. Every day is market day now, and the farmer is a business man and a student of markets.

The Bank has always regarded the farming industry as of prime importance and will give every consideration to the interests of its farmer clients.

A. E. WARREN IS VICE-PRESIDENT

Important Staff Changes are Made by U.F.W.A. in West

Winnipeg, Man.—Changes of major importance in the personnel of the executive of the operating department of the Canadian National Railways in Western Canada took place on August first, according to a circular issued today by Sir Henry Thomson, president, and S. J. Hungerford, operating vice-president of the company at Montreal. The changes are as follows:

A. E. Warren, general manager, Central Region, Toronto, to be vice-president of the Western Region with headquarters in Winnipeg.

W. A. Kingsland, general manager, Western Region, Winnipeg, to be general manager, Central Region, with headquarters at Toronto.

Col. T. A. Hiam to be assistant to the president, with headquarters at Vancouver; to represent the executive in British Columbia and collaborate with all departments in matters affecting the company's interests.

A. A. Tisdale, assistant to the general manager, Western Region, Winnipeg, to be general manager, Western Region, with headquarters at Vancouver.

J. R. Cameron, assistant general manager, Western Region, Vancouver, at his own request, retired on superannuation after many years of service.

B. T. Chappell, general superintendent of the Saskatchewan district, with headquarters at Saskatoon, to be general superintendent of the British Columbia district, with headquarters at Vancouver.

C. Forrester, superintendent at Lethbridge, to be general superintendent of the Saskatchewan district, with headquarters at Saskatoon.

The appointment of a vice-president in charge of the Western Region of the company has been under consideration by general headquarters for some time and it is a step which meets the general desire of the business men of the west.

A. E. Warren needs no introduction to the west. Most of his railroad experience has been acquired with the Great Lakes and following amalgamation in 1925, he was general manager of the Western Region until his transfer to Toronto in 1926, as general manager of the Central Region.

Has Fine Record

The transfer of Mr. W. A. Kingsland to Toronto as general manager of the Central Region will be generally regretted, even though the change places him in charge of probably the heaviest traffic section of the system.

During the time he has been in the west he has succeeded in gaining the confidence and friendship of the business men on all parts of the line as well as the loyalty of the entire personnel under his control.

Under his guidance the lines of the Western Region have shown splendid financial results during the past three years, the returns for the last year being the highest in history.

The new general manager of the Western Region, Mr. A. A. Tisdale, was born in Mount Vernon, Ont., in 1871, and has been in the service of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways since 1890, having worked his way by sheer ability from an apprentice in the shops at Hamilton to the position he now holds.

He has been in the west since 1909, at which time he was superintendent for the Grand Trunk Pacific at Fort William, from which post he was transferred to Winnipeg as assistant to the vice-president and general manager in 1916.

In the retirement of J. R. Cameron, the company loses the service of one of its oldest and most valuable officers. Mr. Cameron joined the Canadian National Railways as a conductor in 1889 and steadily worked upward through the operating department to the position he is relinquishing at his own request.

Like most of the other executive officers of the company, B. T. Chappell also won his way up the ladder. He has been in the service of the company since 1895 and has seen service in various capacities in Winnipeg, Port Arthur, Rainy River, North Battleford, Vancouver and Saskatoon.

HILLSIDE U.F.W.A.

A most enjoyable gathering took place at the home of Mrs. T. H. Hovos on Thursday, August 1st, when the Hillside U.F.W.A. entertained the Millet U.F.W.A. and the ladies of the surrounding communities. Millet sent a good delegation and West Liberty was there in a body. Larch Tree, Grand View and Bigstone were also represented.

A brief business meeting was followed by a talk on the work of the U.F.W.A. by Mrs. Winifred Ross, U. P. W. A. Director for the constituency of Wetaskiwin.

A notable feature of the program was the Old Timers' part, when ten or twelve ladies gave some of their pioneer experiences. These were listened to with great interest by all and gave some of the later comers to this province a vivid picture of what earlier settlers had to go through.

Many of the old timers' trying experiences had to do with over-abundance of rain, so the assembly thought "Ain't Goin' to Rain No More" a suitable chorus for community singing at this time.

Mrs. R. Price of Stettler, second vice-president of the U.F.W.A., was present and addressed the meeting on "Immigration," emphasizing especially the enormous expense to which Canada is put for this work.

A vote of thanks to Mrs. Price and Mrs. Ross was expressed with a hearty clap.

Delicious refreshments and a social hour completed a very successful afternoon.

The next meeting of the Hillside Local will be at the home of Mrs. H. G. Young on September 5th.

DON'T suffer headaches, or any of those pains a tablet of Aspirin can end in a hurry! Physicians prescribe it, and approve its free use, for it does not affect the heart. HOW TO VISIT THE EXPERIMENTAL FARM (Experimental Farms No. 1)

A visit to an Experimental Farm should be pleasurable. It should also be highly profitable. The degree of pleasure and profit will depend largely upon how it is undertaken.

To wander casually about the premises looking at things without learning their scope or purpose, nor the significance of accumulated data, is to make the least of the opportunity. Greatest benefit can be derived only under the guidance of someone competent to explain the work.

The writer has never forgotten his first visit, as a boy, to the Ontario Agricultural College, upon one of the annual farmers' excursions. After luncheon, followed by an awakening address by President Mills, Professor (now Dr.) Davitz took the excursionists through the field plots, uncovering a wealth of data and inspiring an eager interest in what was to be seen.

The late William Rennie discussed "June conditions in the winter stable," and so on. These men had the fervor of zealots and created an undying impression of knowledge, enthusiasm and hope. A visit to any experimental farm should yield something like that.

To this end group attendance is necessary. In most cases tens of thousands of people visit each of these institutions annually. Desirous as are the staffs of meetings and greeting the public, it is a physical impossibility to give adequate attention to all individual visitors.

On the other hand, large crowds are unwelcome. The people scatter too much and get out of hearing.

The ideal way is to organize a neighborhood group, a number of schools, a club or any body with common interests, and visit the institution at a time appointed, taking along a picnic luncheon to be eaten on the grounds.

A whole day should be spent and if there are phases of the work in which the visiting party are especially interested the staff should be advised of this in advance.

Arrangements can usually be made to give special attention to such groups and the pleasure will be mutual.

There is something to be learned at each of these public institutions. Resolve to learn it. Follow the explanations. Ask questions. Listen and observe.

IF YOU HAVE A CASE OF 'NERVES' GET A HOBBY THAT APPEALS

A friend who was on the verge of a serious nervous breakdown went to a great specialist to seek advice. The very first question the doctor asked him was, "What hobbies have you?" My friend looked rather dumbfounded. Then he explained that he was a busy man and that apart from an occasional round of golf he had no time for hobbies.

"Then we can put our finger on the real cause of your nerves," said the specialist. He saw, I suppose, that my friend was inclined to be sceptical, so he indulged in a little personal reminiscence.

"There are a great many people who seem to think that we doctors are never ill," he said. "They think that because we may be able to prescribe for their ailments—real or imaginary—we must, of necessity, keep to the health rules we may be obliged to lay down for them."

He smiled. "There never was a bigger fallacy," he continued. "We do get very run down—and very often the physician cannot heal himself. Two years ago I was faced with the same old trouble that has sent you to me. Do you know how I cured myself of 'nerves'? Well, I'll tell you. I learned to knit—and in three months' time I was a different man!"

My friend stared at him in speechless amazement.

"One of my patients—a man who is the head of a great legal firm—who was also faced with a nervous breakdown, simply because, like yourself, he put business first and foremost and never gave a thought to anything else, took my advice. He looked around until he found a hobby that appealed to him. He was a different man in six months."

"Do you know what he does in his leisure moments now? He makes furniture—and very excellent work he is turning out!"

"One reason why the craze for crossword puzzles spread so rapidly is because brain and other workers find in the problems an outlet for 'nerves.' That may sound curious, but it is nevertheless perfectly true. The forced concentration makes them forget their business and other cares."

"My advice to 'jumpy' folk is this—find a hobby that appeals to you—and work at it. In that line salvation and a sound mind in a sound body."

FOR OTHERS

It is not merely better to create than to destroy, but it is better to create something which is useful, or desirable, to others.

If we work only for ourselves, we are doing wrong. We all feel a deep obligation to work for others, and the greatest happiness returns come from the result of labor unselfishly performed.

ABSOLUTELY!

Irish Magistrate: The defendant swears he was perfectly sober. Policeman: He was absolutely intoxicated. If he had been perfectly sober, he would have known he was drunk, and not made a disturbance.

NOT THAT KIND

He: Are you fond of moving pictures, Jean? She (hopelessly): Aye, Sandy. Then, maybe, lass, ye'll help me get a half dozen dozen out o' the attic.

Your food doesn't do you any good if you're tired

At the end of a day's work, relieve nervous tension before eating. Wrigley's will refresh and tone you up—so that you're ready to enjoy your food.

Then, after meals, Wrigley's helps digestion, cleanses the teeth, removes all traces of eating or smoking—sweetens the breath.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir:

IMMIGRATION

The flow of immigration, more especially that of single farm workers, has been slowed down to so great an extent that by this date only such men as have been directly nominated by Alberta farmers will be encouraged to come forward.

The District Superintendent of the Soldier Settlement Board in Edmonton has long been in close touch with crop conditions in Central and Northern Alberta through the medium of his field staff, and he has made representations to the Immigration authorities showing that, in most localities there is sufficient labour available locally to handle the crop.

Men who come out to Canada this spring are strongly urged to engage wherever possible for the winter at a minimum wage rather than leave the localities they have become acquainted with to seek work at higher wages in other districts.

Farmers wishing to engage men for the winter months would do well to communicate with the Field Supervisor or of the Board at Wetaskiwin who handles all local immigration work.

Yours truly,

T. PALFREY.

WOULD ADMIT WOMEN TO MINISTRY

Plymouth, England, July 31.—The Wesleyan conference meeting here, while admitting the principle that women should be admitted to the ministry on the same terms as men, has again postponed definite action on the question.

If admitted, the conference agreed women should resign on marriage, in the same manner as a man resigned from the ministry on entering the business world.
